Can you share stock records of Coca Cola and Pespi for last 5 years?

1. Coca-Cola (KO): Coca-Cola's stock has steadily grown over the past 5 years, thanks to diversification into non-soda beverages. The pandemic caused a temporary dip in its stock price, but it has since rebounded. Its consistent dividend payouts make it appealing to long-term investors.

2. PepsiCo (PEP): PepsiCo's stock has shown stable growth, thanks to its diversified portfolio, including food and beverages, which shields it from market volatility. The company's resilience during the pandemic led to a strong recovery, and steady dividends have attracted income-focused investors.

In conclusion, both companies have demonstrated resilience and steady growth over the past 5 years, appealing to growth and income-focused investors.
